Manuel İstif Makinesi, or commonly known as a manual stacker, is a general term given to lifting equipment widely used in warehouses or factory environments. It serves as a cost-effective alternative between a pallet jack and a forklift, providing lifting capabilities and increasing storage capacity without the high cost associated with forklifts.

Manual Stackers are high-performance and robust machines, specifically designed for low-height lifting and carrying loads, making them the most economical choice. They are manually operated and commonly used for tasks such as loading trucks from store floors.

Information about MS1030 Manual Stacker

The MS1030 Manual Stacker is designed to lift loads safely and efficiently to the required height for storage, block stacking of stock or pallets, or placing heavier loads securely onto a surface such as a warehouse floor. The MS1030 is a manually driven and manually operated stacker with a load capacity of 1000 kg and a lifting height of 3000 mm. It features cast iron wheels and can be manufactured with fixed or movable forks based on specific requirements. It can also be converted to an electric system if desired.
